

I'm not a bot

I too have had this problem and OMG i have tried every forum and so on and found nothing that worked until now i have looked at the game MC it is very sloppy in its frame there is a graphics bug and a network bug Graphics (blocks reappear after dig or disappear after build) can also slow chat Fix: (well it worked for me) 1) update graph card (i "MatrixCow08 didn't update anything, so this step is not required for a lot of people.. but if u have very old graphics card driver then updating it will give more good performance!) 2) put your video options as follows (it will be a bit slower than 1 player game, as it will drain your mem in places but you will not get the Blocks reforming and will build ok) and remember to move away from your spawn point till you try :smile.gif: Graphics :FAST limit fram .ON (if u are using optifine then u will see "vsync" ... i (MatrixCow08) set it to 40 and everything is good with it.) View Bobbing :OFF GUI Scale :AUTO Render Dist : FAR (i "MatrixCow08" set the render distance to 8 ... FAR will make the game laggy and maybe the connection too?) 3D Ana : OFF Smooth Light : ON Advanced opGL : OFF I've run into this particular exit code a few times despite being on modern nVidia drivers at the time. For me, it usually occurs under one of the following two scenarios... 1. Using some screen recording or overlay program. GeForce Experience, Afterburner, OBS, etc. The exit code does also mention this so outdated drivers are unlikely to be the cause (unless you're still on seven year old nVidia drivers). If you're using any overlay or recording stuff, try without and see if that stops the issue. I was able to run these programs fine, but when I used Afterburner to record, it'd record fine, but if I recorded for too long, and then stopped, it'd trip it up. 2. Using some shaders in older (1.10/1.11 at least) Minecraft versions. Never in newer (at least 1.16+) versions, it was still pretty rare, and may have been limited to when changing from full screen to window or vice versa (I swear this is the moment when I've had so many crashes with this game). Funny thing is I moved to AMD and now in an older version (1.12), I'm just getting a loss of signal to restart crash. I had this issue on a broad scale before (RMA of the video card fixed it) so I'm not sure if it's the same issue returning, or this is simply one of many "interesting" issues with older Minecraft versions and nVidia and AMD just crash differently in response to it. Still need to test and see if my crashes extend beyond this situation, but I digress. If it's instead happening frequently and soon after starting to play, and in recent versions, and if it's in more vanilla situations (no mods, no shaders, no overlay programs), then I wouldn't have many guesses left. The first that jumps out to me (at least for the thread starter) is why are you using Windows 10 on a 12th+ generation Intel? Those really want the scheduler from Windows 11 to operate more optimally due to their hybrid core nature. It may or not be the cause though. In either case, I'd probably try a test by disabling the e-cores and seeing if that plays into the occurrence of this crash. Sort of related, but are you overclocking? If so, revert to stock/defaults (this includes setting RAM profiles like XMP to default). It might be worth investigating if your motherboard is pushing your CPU too hard, even at its default settings. I say this because some of the 13th and 14th generation upper SKU CPUs are proving to be pretty unstable in certain workloads that push them certain ways, and they need underclocked (lowering the p-core and/or e-core ratio) to be made stable. The "out of video memory trying to allocate a rendering resource" error message that even those with RTX 4090s are seeing? Or the other error messages when compiling shaders in Unreal Engine/DirectX 12 games? It's the CPU. And with an Asus motherboard I'd be more wary it's pushing the CPU hard (Asus was apparently the one brand doing it worst on AMD's side too, if you recall the situation with the 7800X3D burning up). I haven't heard of this problem with the prior 12th generation, but the point here is I'd probably rule out any overclocking (XMP included) just to be sure. Beyond that, I'd have little if any ideas. nVidia's drivers have been on and off spotty lately and the error code does seem to be nVidia specific (though your log doesn't seem to mention the nVidia drivers as the cause, it seems to be pointing largely to Java?), so maybe trying slightly older ones to see if it is a factor in the exit code occurring or not? If not, I'd be out of guesses. News Rules Forum Chat Mods Maps Resource Packs MC Station Desktop View Java Java Hey everyone, I'm Leo and I've been developing a project called MinePal. I've always felt that games are way more enjoyable with friends, so I decided to create an AI friend to bring that experience into Minecraft. MinePal is an AI player that you can chat with and have join you in your adventures. The project is still in its early stages, and I need some early testers to help me out. I want to know if you find it fun and what improvements we can make. If you're interested in being part of this, head over to MinePal.net and join our Discord server. Thanks a lot!
