So, what are the origins of Valentine's Day — and why has the holiday endured?The Pagan Origins of Valentine's DayLike so many of our modern-day celebrations, Valentine's Day may date back to a pagan festival, at least in part. That celebration was known as Lupercalia, a fertility festival dedicated to Faunus, the Roman god of agriculture, and Rome's founders, Romulus and Remus. Write a letter to your mom and tell her why you love her. Not exactly. This printable includes special stationery for a letter and picture.2nd through 5th GradesFinish the sentences to tell why your mom is special.Designed for very young writers, this primary-ruled worksheet requires students to describe their mom's height, age, and favorite foods. A little more involved than swiping left, huh? Often referred to as a "Hallmark Holiday," Valentine's Day is largely associated with sappy greeting cards, heart-shaped boxes of chocolates, rose-filled bouquets, and other so-called symbols of love. (Some of the answers can be quite funny!) Students also tell why they love their mom.Print out this adorable trophy for Mom! It's so simple to make! All you have to do is print out the file on cardstock, cut out the pieces, and glue them together. MORE FROM REFERENCE.COM The goat's hide was then dipped in blood, taken to the fields and, finally, given to the Roman women. Well, most Christian feast days are associated with a saint and, as you might be able to guess, Saint Valentine is primarily known as the patron saint of lovers. Photo Courtesy: JHU Sheridan Libraries/Gado/Getty Images Observed in the United States, Canada, Mexico, France, Australia and the United Kingdom, modern Valentine's Day as we know it was first celebrated in the 17th or 18th centuries, with folks exchanging handwritten notes and small tokens. According to History, "Roman women welcomed the touch of the hides because it was believed to make them more fertile in the coming year." All of this ended in a lottery-like matchmaking system to pair the city's young women and men together. It will bring a big smile to her face!Design an award for a super special stepmother.The picture on the front of this card has wildflowers in a mug. Photo Courtesy: Fine Art Images/Heritage Images/Getty Images One popular legend suggests that when Emperor Claudius II of Rome outlawed marriage for the young men in his army, a priest named Valentine performed marriages in secret. By the 1800s, Richard Cadbury, the founder of the Cadbury chocolate company, began the practice of gifting boxes of chocolate on Valentine's Day in the U.K. Meanwhile, in the U.S., Esther A. Shortly after, King Henry V allegedly hired a ghost writer to compose a valentine to his love. It is said that before his death, he signed a letter to her "From your Valentine." Of course, which version of Valentine is actually the day's namesake doesn't quite matter as much as what the figure stands for — love, empathy and sacrifice.How Did Valentine's Day Become the Holiday We Know Today?Apart from Valentine's letter of legend, the oldest known valentine came about in 1415 when Charles, Duke of Orleans, wrote a love poem to his wife while he was imprisoned in the Tower of London. Another Valentine, this one a bishop, was also put to death by Claudius the second, though little is known about that potential namesake. Moms will adore this "Best Mom" trophy!Grandma will love receiving this "Best Grandma" trophy! Print it out on cardstock and cut out the pieces with scissors. Additionally, the National Retail Foundation projected that Americans would spend a staggering $27.4 billion in 2020 on Valentine's-related items. By the end of the 400s A.D., Pope Gelasius put an end to the festival, noting that its pagan roots were in direct opposition to Christianity. It reads, "You're the Greatest Stepmom." Make a Card for Mom: Tea for TwoMake a Card for Mom: Tea for TwoBrighten Mom's day with a special kid-made card filled with butterflies, dragonflies, ladybugs, and a tea party picnic set for two. And the rest, as they say, is history. To kick things off, an order of Roman priests known as the Luperci would gather in a sacred cave where, according to legend, Rome's founders were cared for by a wolf. The words say, "World's Best Stepmom!"The picture on the front of this card has a cute animal holding a balloon. But when did the holiday become what we know today? Eventually, he was found out and Claudis sentenced him to death. These days, the Greeting Card Association estimates that 145 million people send Valentine's Day cards each year — and that's not including all those cards kids trade at school. Photo Courtesy: Fototeca Storica Nazionale/Hulton Archive/Getty Images Love it or hate it, February 14 is celebrated by millions of people annually. Held on the ides of February, Lupercalia was meant to usher in the spring — a time that's most often associated with fertility and birth. In an attempt to Christianize the holiday, Pope Gelasius decided to replace Lupercalia with a Christian feast day. Glue them together and give your trophy to Grandma. According to the Catholic Church, there were at least three martyred saints named Valentine or Valentinus, so it's difficult to determine for whom the day was named. Howland, the so-called "Mother of the Valentine," first sold mass-produced valentines in the 1840s. Perhaps the most popular legend associated with Valentine's Day tells the story of a man who wanted to help Christian people escape Roman prisons. They would then sacrifice a goat and a dog, animals that represent fertility and purification respectively. Of course, it didn't start out this way. During the Middle Ages, folks would associate this feast day with love and romance, especially in the wake of Geoffrey Chaucer's The Parlement of Foules, a poem about birds finding their mates.So, how did this feast day become known as Valentine's Day? In this telling, the imprisoned Valentine sent the first "valentine" greeting to a young woman who had visited him.
