The dashboard for teachers on Edpuzzle displays other data that include the length of time it took for a student to complete an assignment and their scores on the quizzes that are embedded on the videos. Teachers who have registered can use the videos already edited by teachers to use instantly as lesson materials or to modify and personalize them to help them connect better with their own students. In this way, you are able to access homework and school notices and engage with the platform. They can customize the videos by adding their own voice-overs and commentaries, embed assessment questions for students or add links to other related videos. Photo Courtesy: Jecapix/Getty Images Teachers who want to use their own material can upload videos from website sources like YouTube, National Geographic and TED. On their Edpuzzle dashboard, they can begin adding videos to their account by clicking on 'My Content', clicking 'Add Content', and then selecting 'Create Video'. Alternatively, they can browse for videos from any of the channels on the left side menu to add to their lesson library. Edpuzzle is essentially empowering teachers to make the most of visual learning and let them track the progress of their students at the same time. Teachers have since uploaded around 8 million lessons to its video library that was accessed by 35 million students and with 70 percent of schools in the United States connecting with Edpuzzle in some way. Signing up for an Edpuzzle account as a teacher is easy and is similar to the usual registration process of most other membership websites. Select the option that's applicable to you, and then follow the on-screen instructions to create your free account. This means that depending on the location of a teacher, he or she may need to provide proof of parental consent before inviting a student to an Edpuzzle classroom. Some U.S. states and regional laws require parental consent from a child's legal guardian before any institution or individuals can disclose a child's personally identifiable information (PII) to a third party. Once you have added the videos to your own library, you can start editing them to suit your online class and assign them to your students. MORE FROM QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET This allows Edpuzzle to validate the teachers' identity, protect their personal information and help them recover their account in case any of them forgot their passwords. When creating a parent account, you must provide a six-digit parent code, a number that's unique to every student account. Although all of these may seem nice and very helpful, why does Edpuzzle focus on videos? Complete your login details in the same way as you would to log in on the website for easy access to Edmodo functionality wherever you are. According to Edpuzzle, their emphasis on the use of videos as teaching and learning tools is based on a study that says 65 percent of students learn better with visuals and that 95 percent of students regularly view videos on YouTube. As a formative assessment tool, Edpuzzle also comes with features that make it easier for teachers to track the progress of their students throughout the curriculum according to their scores. Select to log in using Office 365 or your Google account, or enter your username and password usually your email address and the password you selected when first registering. Many schools use Edmodo to facilitate class collaboration and to access homework and school notices. To use Edmodo, you first need to create an account. From this channel, you can find videos that you can modify to suit your own lessons. Photo Courtesy: damircudic/Getty Images In some cases, some teachers who are signing up may also need to provide proof of parental consent. According to the website, Edpuzzle was launched in 2013. If you know how to log in to Edmodo, you know how to log in to Edpuzzle. The teacher's e-mail addresses can also be used to inform them about any changes or updates in the system. Edpuzzle is an interactive learning platform based on the Internet for educators. On the Edmodo home page, there are three options for logging in: teachers, students and parents. It provides an easy way for teachers to engage their students with videos. If you've forgotten your password, select 'PASSWORD RESET' to receive a password reset e-mail to your registered email account.edmodo for parents. Edmodo simplifies the creation of an account and link it to one or more student accounts. Alternatively, you can add the EdPuzzle YouTube extension on your browser to add video to your library more easily. Photo courtesy: Eclipse_images / Getty Images If teachers from the same schools have used edpuzzle in the past, the teachers who have signed up can also use the same video materials by clicking on 'My School' or 'Edpuzzle Channel'. On the other hand, it shows a wide collection of video lessons that are already being edited by other teachers. After the enrollment process, it is important for teachers to verify the email addresses they have provided. Please note that you have the option to register your first registration create an account with your email address and password of your choice or to register using Office 365 or the Google account. It will be a good idea for teachers to use these tutorials to make the most of the features of Edpuzzle. Education must not be confined to 9-9 to 3 p.m., Monday to Friday, or even confined to a specific building. Additionally, students require a six-digit class or group code, provided by their teacher. The Steps for Logging into Edmodo Once you are registered, it's possible to use the Edmodo home page login to access your account. The platform already has 100 million members, 400,000 schools and 700 million resources. Teachers can select from the millions of video lessons already uploaded on Edpuzzle. What makes Edpuzzle unique is that its editing features were designed with educators in mind, allowing them to customize the videos for specific learning progression and objectives. Teachers may obtain proof of parental consent from their school or ask the student's parents directly for it.
