I don't want to be low to fuel the next time we encounter a group like that. "Dennis stared at the silent window. He hoped that they would never have met a group like that again. He passed a service station a few miles along the way. They approached the service station slowly, checking the signs of life, but there were no. Dennis opened and opened the gas cap. The gas pump seemed to work, so he filled the truck tank. Once the tank was full, Dennis started filling extra containers and putting them in the bed of the truck.Mac decided that he would go inside the service station to look for additional food and supplies. They still had the cornbread and apple of the ranch, but he didn't know when they would be able to stop again. Mac was beginning to realize that life as he knew he was over.
